
The Best Offers Are the First Offers

Sellers are reluctant to accept the very first offer in the hopes that "something better" will come along. This can be a costly error. Statistics show that, in a normal market, the "best" offer for your home will come within the first 30 days of being listed. After that time, the price you can expect to receive for your home, will decline.

Listing
Taken

